

MGM GRAND AIR Boeing 727-191

MGM Grand Air, similar to the previous service offered by Regent Air, started their luxurious first-class only transcontinental service on September 8, 1987 linking New York (JFK) with Los Angeles (LAX). The pictured N503MG, a true palace in the sky, started its airline career with Frontier when it was delivered on October 4, 1966 as N7271F. It returned to Boeing and was sold to Braniff on December 3, 1969 as N298BN. In August of 1982, its life of luxury would begin when it was sold to Regent Air as N503RA. It would then become the present N503MG with MGM.
